

The effects of the torrential downpour that flooded the region on February 4-5 are still being felt in some corners today. With areas under as much as four metres of water, roads were swept away, some residents lost everything and others were lucky to keep hold of their lives. Gary Sissons witnessed dozens of people relocate 50 horses to higher ground in Bangholme Road as the water rushed by.

Sam Stiglec was on hand to capture the Southern Football League division 3 premiership match between the Southern Dragons and Mount Waverley. As this shot of Southern Dragons forward Andrew Do's 'hanger' suggests, his team fought their way to the top.

Egg farmer Andrew Postregna has 20,000-odd chickens at Cranbourne and feared for his livelihood when Coles cut the price of free range eggs to $4 a dozen. Pictured by Ted Kloszynski, Postregna said that with another 70,000 birds at Dandenong South and 50,000 at Langwarrin, he was worried supermarkets were squeezing egg farmers out of business.
